

Community Researcher Roles at Dulwich Picture Gallery

Do you enjoy working in a team and love meeting people of all ages? Then this may be the role for you!

We are looking for members of our local community to come and work with us at Dulwich Picture Gallery and help us to research, better understand and celebrate the local stories, voices and interests of our local communities at the Gallery. This paid freelance role supports our new project The Past for the Present which aims to discover new ways for old paintings to connect and speak to our lives today.

As the programme has our local communities at its heart we are looking for people who have a good understanding of the local needs and diversity of our priority boroughs of Southwark, Lambeth and Lewisham. This could be through growing up, living or working in the areas.

What skills and interests are helpful...

- Confident communication skills with the ability to talk to a wide range of people
- Enthusiastic about community engagement, arts and social research
- Recognise the importance of active listening and active learning
- Happy to work and collaborate within a team
- Ability to treat all people with respect and dignity at all times
- Flexibility to attend training, development and research days

What you get as a Community Researcher...

- This is a paid role with a free training and development programme to support you
- Valuable transferable skills and experiences in areas of facilitation, creative planning and social action research
- Support to access further development opportunities at the end of the programme

How do I find out more?

To apply or find out more about the role please see our FAQ and submission form via this link - Community Researchers FAQs and Submission Process or by scanning the QR code.

DULWICH
PICTURE
GALLERY

Esmée Fairbairn
Collections Fund

shortwork